ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A follicular dissection system comprises a polarized light source for directing polarized light onto a follicular donor section. An analyzer polarizes image light from the follicular donor section. An optical system provides an image of the follicular donor section from polarized image light from the analyzer.